

Moderately Likely

predictive analytics was the most popular technology already being used, followed by: Telemedicine •••••• Mobile •••••• 000000 Artificial Intelligence Wearables

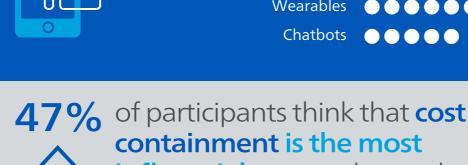

Chatbots

containment is the most

already using advanced technology,

Of those that reported they are

Not All Likely

influential reason the workers' compensation industry is adopting advanced technologies.

Need for Faster Automate Return-to-Work Administrative Tasks

Risk Mitigation

Claims Triage

Direction of Care

Manage Return-to-Work

Safety & Risk Management

14%

11%)

11%

11%

9%

-6 Platforms Used

Currently Planning to Implement

or Implementing Claims Analytics

10 or More of participants said their organization is actively make business improvements.

using claims analytics to

7–9 Platforms Used

Not Using Claims Analytics, but likely to Implement in the Next 5 Years

Unsure

00000

0000

Respondents said their organizations are using claims analytics mostly to analyze trends, followed by:

Risk Prediction

Manage Return-to-Work

Performance Management

Understand Predicted Treatment Timelines

Predict Injury Severity

12%

25-50% 50-75% 3% Unsure 27% of participants said workflow

efficiency was the biggest organization is facing today.

Cost Containment

claims challenge their

Changing Workforce/Employee Turnover

Keeping Up to Date with Regulatory Changes

Return-to-Work Time Pharmaceutical Management IT Budget Other 27% of participants say they classify the company they work for as an insurance carrier.

Third Party Administrator

Employer

Broker

Vendor

Public Entity

Risk Management

Managed Care Company

	State Fund	2%
	Other	10%
71%	of respondents said they had 10+ years of workers' compensation industry experience.

4-6 Years

This survey was conducted prior to COVID-19.

©2020 Mitchell International, Inc. All rights reserved.

1-3 Years

mitchell

19%)

15%

14%

10%

7%

5%

3%

18%

14%

12%

9%

6%

4%

3%